

Young Women's Community and Spirit Award

PROUDLY AWARDED BY

International Women's Day
Association SA Inc

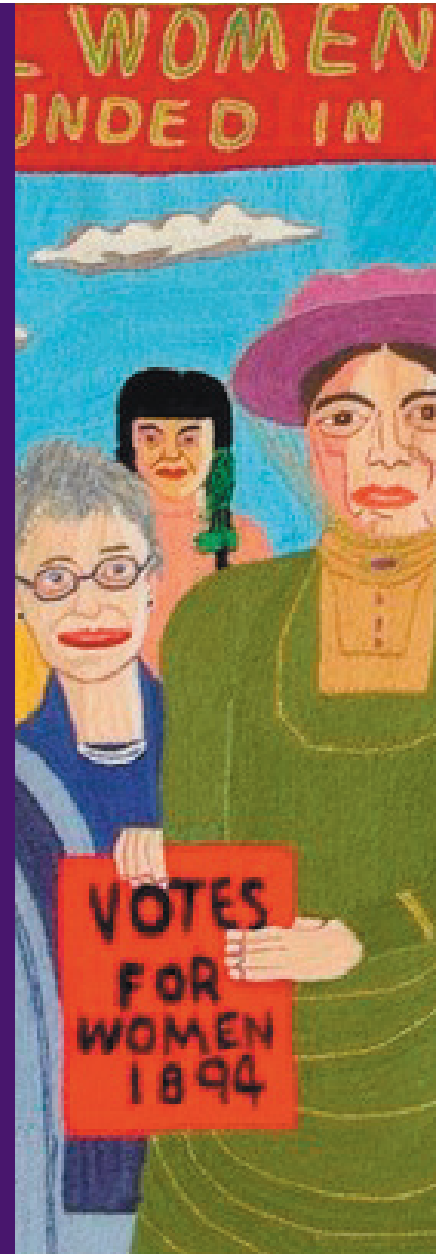

An award for service to women in the community

Every year on 8 March, the world celebrates International Women's Day (IWD).

IWD provides a common day for globally recognising and applauding women's achievements as well as for observing and highlighting gender inequalities and issues. However, not just on IWD, but all year round, many organisations and individuals work tirelessly to support gender equality through a multitude of initiatives, causes and actions.

The South Australian Young Women's Community and Spirit Award aims to recognise outstanding achievements and dedication of young South Australian women aged 12 to 30 years in support of gender equality.

The award presents an exciting opportunity to ensure that we recognise those young women who are using their skills to make our community a better place for women and girls. The Young Women's Community and Spirit Award recognises those young women whose stories are yet to be told, those who are supporting others, and those who are thinking outside the box. We encourage you to seek out those young women and nominate them.
